ESTIMATE 150 U. S. SOLDIERS PERISH

London, Oct. 12.—Conservative estimates early today placed the number of soldiers lost when the British steamship Otranto, acting as an American transport, was sunk in collision with the Kashmir at 150.

The Otranto was dashed to pieces on the rocks of the Scottish coast early Sunday morning after she had been rammed by the Kashmir during a fierce storm.

Captain E. S. Heimer, army medical corps, unattached, whose home is at Hamden, N. Y., arrived here today with 250 survivors of the crash.

Three hundred and seventeen soldiers and 150 members of the Otranto's crew were rescued by a British destroyer, he said.

Captain Heimer interviewed by the United Press, said the collision occurred at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

"A raging storm was in progress," he stated, "with high seas sweeping across our decks when the Kashmir hit us amidships. The coolness and calmness of the soldiers was wonderful. They jumped at attention at their appointed places waiting commands without panic.

"There were 100 sick cases below and I believe they were all lost.

"We floated an hour and a quarter after the collision. When a British destroyer drew up alongside, our boys began to jump. There were 700 soldiers aboard. Of those left aboard, many must have been lost."

Others declared there were 900 soldiers aboard. Unstinted praise is being heaped on Lieutenant Craven, who commanded the British destroyer Mousen and rescued more than 200 men.

Most of the soldiers on the transport were Georgia men, all casualties (probably meaning replacement units).

Red Cross workers met survivors of the lost ship as they landed, supplying them with cigarettes, hot coffee and food and other necessities.

HUNS RETREAT ON A FRONT 37 MILES WIDE

Paris, Oct. 11.—(Delayed)—The Germans are retreating on a front of 37 miles northeast of Rheims, with French cavalry in hot pursuit, the war office announced tonight.

The French, following on the heels of the enemy, have advanced more than six miles at some points.

The line of retreat extends north of Suippe and Arnes rivers. Farther eastward the French are also pushing the Germans back, and the allied advance extends along an unbroken front of about sixty miles from northwest of Rheims to the Argonne forest. Machault has been passed.

French and Italians are rapidly clearing the entire Chemin Des Dames region of the enemy. In the Oise valley the French are pushing toward Quise.

"The enemy has been forced to abandon his positions on a front of 60 kilometers (more than 37 miles) which he had defended for several days past, north of the Suippe and the Arnes," the communique said.

"Our cavalry is trading on the heels of the enemy rear guards, preceding the infantry, which has advanced at certain points to the depth of ten kilometers (more than six miles)."

"We have crossed the Suippe and captured Bertcourt, Aumencourt-Le-Grand, Bazancourt, Isles-Sur-Suippe, and St. Etienne-Sur-Suippe. We have captured the whole front position north of the Suippe and advanced beyond Grand Sausages wood.

"In the wooded region west of Menil-Le Pinos, we advanced toward the Retourne river, which we reached between Houdicourt and Sault St. Remy. Further east we occupied the village of Auesounce, La Neuville, Cauroy, Machault, Contreuve, St. Morel and Savigny-Sur-Aisne, and reached the approaches of Bignicourt, Ville-Sur-Retourne, Mont St. Remy. We are only three kilometers southwest of Vouziers.

"On the Chemin Des Dames, the Italians co-operating with us continued to advance despite resistance, occupying Vendresse-Troyon, Troyon, Courtecon and Cerny-En-Laonnois. We captured Cuisy-En-Cenly, Jumigny and Paisy wood reaching the Chemin Des Dames as far as Ailles.

"Numerous fires, ignited by the enemy, are reported in the Oise Valley, toward Guise."

the Otranto was proceeding, said to the United Press:

"The first we knew of the trouble was when we picked up the S. O. S. messages from both the Otranto and the Kashmir. The storm was so bad we couldn't turn, but had to put back to sea. We couldn't see a thing. Then we heard the Otranto was trying to put life-boats over the side with some of the men drowning as they tried to enter."

Miss Ruth Gibbons of Ardmore, N. Y., another survivor, said there were many conflicting stories regarding the number missing. Latest reports from Belfast, she declared, said there were 900 unaccounted for, while others she had heard placed the loss at 400.

IDLE WEAPONS HIDDEN AWAY IN SAVINGS BANKS

Hidden away in the savings banks of America, dodging both duty and taxes, are idle weapons sufficient to win this war several times over.

They are the dollars that are doing nothing for their country.

For every one of these idle dollars is an idle weapon.

Every one of them should be enlisted in this war.

One of the surprising developments of the war situation is the fact that bank deposits have increased steadily. There is more money on deposit in the banks today than when war was declared.

And besides paying taxes the people have bought some ten billions of Liberty Bonds.

That what has been done to push the Hun back to the Rhine. Our effort and considerable of that of our allies. And the six billions we are shortly to lend to Uncle Sam for the next bond issue, represents the big push which is to force the issue upon German soil.

So if you've an idle weapon lying around loose get it out.

Unless it is used effectively it will ultimately be worthless.

Suppose Germany were yet to win?

Your dollar would become the worn-out weapon of yesterday.

Utterly valueless; utterly useless.

Better hunt the bond counter.

COAL PRODUCTION IN UNITED STATES BEATS ALL RECORDS

Washington, Oct. 12.—Coal production in the United States during the six months has beaten all records for fuel mining in the country's history, the fuel administration announced today.

Revised coal production figures prepared by the United States Geological Survey and made public by the fuel administration, show this record for bituminous and anthracite mining during the first half of the coal production year.

The bituminous tonnage was 311,216,000, an increase of 33,418,000, or 12 per cent over the record-breaking production of the corresponding period of 1917.

The anthracite production from April 1 to September 28 was 51,651,000 tons, which is 1,072,000, or 2.1 per cent over last year's figures.

These production records were established in the face of many handicaps, chief of which was the reduced man power at the mines. It is estimated that the draft took between 50,000 and 60,000 coal miners during the last year, while probably as many men left the mines for other war industries.

FAMOUS EGYPTIAN CAMEL CORPS IS PROVING ITS WORTH: HELPS BRITISH AND INDIAN CAVALRY ROUT TURKISH ARMY

Egyptian camel corps resting.

The prowess of the Egyptian camel corps has been proved conclusively since the beginning of the war, when Germany attempted to start an invasion there with disappointing results. The Egyptian riders are continuing their good work in the present successes of General Allenby's troops, assisting the British and Indian

London, Oct. 12.—The British, continuing their encircling movement of the great center of Douai, have approached to within less than a mile of the city from the west. Field Marshal Haig announced today. Douai is practically surrounded.

British troops, the statement said, now occupy Suinny, Brebieres and Hamel.

"Quincy is less than a mile west of Douai. This represents an additional advance of about four miles, from west of Beaumont. Brebieres is two miles and a half southwest of Douai, on the road from Vitry-En-Artois. (Hamel is a mile west of Arleaux)."

"Our advance north of the Seneze river continued yesterday evening," the statement said. "We now hold the village of Hamel, Brebieres and Quincy. We are east of Henin-Lisard (four and a half miles east of Lens) and on the western outskirts of Annay (two miles and a half northeast of Lens)."

"On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report beyond local fighting at certain points."

TURKEY IN HURRY TO GET OUT OF WAR

London, Oct. 12.—With the Allies in the near east driving ahead to re-establish their front on the Danube river, Turkey is accelerating her efforts to withdraw from the war.

Following tentative negotiations with the allies, reported for the last few days, Turkey is now said to be sending an appeal to President Wilson—probably similar to that of Bulgaria—urging his aid in securing for Turkey, an armistice and her retirement as a Teutonic ally.

Gen. A. Allenby has wrecked Turkey's armies and once the allies re-establish the Danube front Turkey will be cut off from all hope of aid from Germany.

When the allies get their waterway under fire of their guns, barges bearing munitions to Turkey via the Black Sea must cease their operations and the Ottoman empire will be wiped out of the war.

"This accomplished, the Dardanelles will be thrown open to the allied fleet. Odessa opened as a base for reconstruction of an eastern front in Russia—and the plight of Australia will become increasingly serious. It is probable, therefore, that Germany is exerting every pressure to hold her ally in line or engineer Turkey's exit in such fashion as to get what salvage she can out of the ruins. For this reason officials here are withholding comment on the latest reported Turkish maneuver until official advice are at hand."

BALTIMORE BOYS ARE SCRAPPY UNIT

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army in France, September 16.—(By Mail)—The Baltimore trench mortar company, part of a certain division, is a fighting outfit. The company has taken its toll of Germans over and over again.

Probably the biggest job was when the division was east of Rheims. The Baltimore boys took their trench mortars out with lots of ammunition, and heaved tons of shells over on the Germans. They worked six hours in intense German gas, wearing masks of course, to keep in the fight.

It is estimated that almost two German battalions were annihilated by the trench mortar fire. The French cited the company from Baltimore for the croix de guerre for the second time. One more time and the boys will be entitled to wear the fourragere.

Before the war, these Baltimore boys belonged to a coast artillery outfit. They volunteered to do trench mortar work when the call was sent out, and have rapidly developed into about the fastest outfit along the line when it comes to getting shells over on the Germans.

Baltimore people have kept in close touch with the boys of the trench mortar company, No. 117, and the boys feel they are representatives of Baltimore in the trenches.

The mortar guns are always nearest the Germans, since they are close range weapons.

KAISER CAUGHT IN PEACE TRAP OF OWN MAKING

Washington, October 12.—President Wilson's diplomatic flanking movement at Germany's rear is accentuating the difficulty of the kaiser, now struggling to save himself from the peace trap he tried to spring on the allies.

Reported unqualified acceptance by Austria and Turkey of the president's 14 principles for peace, leaves Germany in an extremely delicate position.

She must either yield to her vassals' demands or lose them, in the opinion of experts here.

A Basle dispatch stating the German reply has been handed the Swiss minister greatly heightened speculation as to its contents.

Today Prince Max is expected to appear before the Reichstag and discuss Germany's reply to President Wilson's inquiries. With the German armies retreating steadily under the constant blows of Foch in the west, and with Germany's vassals in the east crying for peace, the position of Max is the most interesting of any of the long line of chancellors that have passed like phantoms over the Reichstag rostrum since the war broke out.

Interior conditions are worse than at any time in the history of Germany. According to reports to this government, the indications increase that "Germany is a crumbling edifice."

Austria, too, is hard pressed—even more so. In addition to the constant unisings of the oppressed nationalities within her borders, the people of Hungary are now demanding a separate government and officials here look to see this granted by Emperor Charles in his coming message.

SEVENTY FOUR AMERICANS ARE HELD PRISONERS

FORMER COMMANDER OF SLAV ARMIES DEAD

Copenhagen, Oct. 12.—It is reported here that General Alexieff, former commander-in-chief of the Russian Armies, is dead.

The cable dispatch made no mention of the manner in which he met his death.

ALLIES DO NOT SLACKEN ADVANCE ON ANY FRONT

Germany's reply to President Wilson's armistice note is reported to have been delivered to the Swiss minister in Berlin this morning.

Some German newspapers say the reply acceded to Wilson's demands, which included complete evacuation of occupied territories and a statement as to which German faction was represented in the proposal, before an armistice could be considered.

Others say that only far-reaching concessions are contained in the reply.

The most definite reports concerning the German answer were received in unofficial dispatches to the United States yesterday. These stated that Germany would agree to evacuation of France and Belgium, providing peace negotiations began in a neutral country before the withdrawal was completed, but that Austro-German troops would remain in occupied portions of Russia and Rumania until peace was signed.

The reply is said to have been drawn up under supervision of Prince Max, the German chancellor, but to have required confirmation at a conference of the Kaiser with his military and civil chiefs, and the rulers of the various German states.

At the same time, Austria-Hungary and Turkey are reported to have notified Germany that they will accept Wilson's terms for an armistice.

An Amsterdam dispatch said that official announcement of this was expected at once. Turkey also is reported to have undertaken separate negotiations for an immediate peace, through Wilson.

In the meantime the allies continue their advance on wide fronts.

The British, striking along a 22 mile front between Lens and Cambrai yesterday evening carried their lines to within a mile of Douai, on the west. That important city is now practically surrounded. There was no major fighting, apparently on the remainder of the front north of St. Gobain Massif.

The German retirement in the Champagne region has carried them northward in the bend of the Aisne to the general line of the Retourne river and the Pauvaus highway. The latter town has been occupied by the French.

Evacuation of the Chemin Des Dames region by the enemy is also proceeding rapidly and the French and Italians are almost upon Craonne.

In the Balkans the Serbians are within 12 miles of their former capital of Nish. The French and Serbs are pushing westward into Albania, retreating northward. Italian troops continue to shove the Austrian line northward in Albania.

HUN PRISONERS SHOULD BE USED ON FRENCH FARMS

TOURS, France, Oct. 12.—William Oxley Thompson, president of Ohio State university, and chairman of the United States Agricultural commission in France, advocates the employment of German prisoners in the work of reconstruction after the war. He said today:

"German prisoners should be used for work on the farms and to finish the work of reconstruction after the war, for the battle fields are filled with unexploded shells. The military authorities should supervise the work. You can charge indemnities but you cannot get the land ready to plow without great risk. The Germans should be compelled to take this risk as part of the price for their wanton destruction.

"If German prisoners are allowed to return home it will reinforce Germany and leave France on its back. Even after suffering a military defeat, Germany could win an economic victory if German prisoners were allowed to return."

WOMEN URGED TO RENEWED EFFORT IN BOND SALE

Mrs. Eber Reynolds, chairman for Greene County of the Women's Liberty Loan Committee, received Saturday a telegram signed by Mrs. William G. McAdoo, as chairman of the National Women's Liberty Loan Committee, bearing the message of President Wilson to the people of the United States, urging them to over-subscribe the Liberty Loan.

The text of the telegram is: The president has called to the nation to over-subscribe the loan as an imperative measure toward certain and complete victory. The National Women's Liberty Loan Committee appreciating all that you have already done, calls upon you to take that message home to your community. Over-subscription of quota in your district must be the personal responsibility of every Liberty Loan Worker.

Mrs. Reynolds also received a telegram Saturday in answer to a query she had sent to Mrs. Mulhouser, state chairman of the Women's Liberty Loan Committee, regarding subscriptions being taken by Boy Scouts. Mrs. Mulhouser said that she was authorized by the chairman of the federal reserve district to say that by no means are bonds to be sold by Boy Scouts.

In response to the president's message, Mrs. Reynolds today gave out this appeal: "Double your Liberty Loan subscription, every one, that the president's appeal may be granted. The first Liberty Loan placed the boys in camp, the second equipped and sent them over there, the third took them to the present critical point, the fourth will take them to Berlin, the fifth will bring them home."

CEDARVILLE FIRST TO GO OVER THE TOP

To Cedarville township goes the honor of first going over the top in the present liberty loan campaign. A determined spirit made by the workers in that community during the last few days put the township across Friday afternoon. Caesarcreek township was a close second, that township going over Saturday morning. Telegrams have been sent to the Liberty Loan Headquarters for honor flags to be sent to these two townships.

While Cedarville and Caesarcreek townships have gone over the top several other townships in the county are far behind and it is feared that they will not pull out of the hole before the campaign closes. For this reason it is necessary that townships that have reached their quotas go ahead with the campaign and roll up a big oversubscription in order that the county quota may be reached. Workers in Cedarville and Caesarcreek township have all agreed to go ahead with their work until the last horn blows. Each one is out to see which can roll up the largest oversubscription in proportion to its original quota.

The total sales in Greene county are now $602,000. This leaves more than $200,000 of bonds to be sold. The local committee frankly states that the hardest part of the journey is ahead and they are inclined to be pessimistic about the outcome. All the larger subscriptions are in and in order to put the loan across many persons who have already subscribed will have to subscribe more. "Buy More Bonds" is the slogan and it is a slogan that means just what it says. It is necessary to "buy more bonds" or Greene county will fall down for the first time in its war work campaigns.

It is announced today that Greene county's share of the bonds purchased by the American Tobacco Company is $2,000 and its share of bonds purchased by The Ohio Fuel Supply Company is $5,000.

Camera Detects Bad Eggs.

Bad eggs are unfailingly detected by the camera. This has been demonstrated in France, where experiments are being conducted with a photographic egg-testing apparatus, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The idea of utilizing the camera instead of the human eye for candling is a new one. So far it has not been carried past the laboratory stage; but even though its obstacles prevent its commercial utilization at present, it is of more than passing interest. Eggs are held in a half dozen oval holes provided in a metal plate. Their large ends point toward a common center. While intense light is passed through them, they are photographed. A powerful lens is used and an exposure ranging upward to three minutes is made. The result is a picture that shows the size of the air chambers in the eggs.

Hemp Tree's Many Products.

The hemp tree is one of the most versatile plants in the world. From it comes, besides rope and wrapping paper, the drug hashish, called by its devotees "the joyous," obtained by boiling the leaves and flowers with fresh butter; a valuable vegetable oil, a cake used by the farmers for their stock, and the finer varieties are used for cloth, coarse laces and burlap. A great deal of the seed is exported for canary seed.

W. S. S. SALES EQUAL $70 TO EACH FAMILY

Columbus, O.—(Special.)—Demonstrating that Ohioans appreciate the merits of War Savings Stamps both as a medium for patriotic assistance to the government and as a sound business investment, the Ohio War Savings Committee informs its county chairmen that more than 17,000,000 of the "baby bonds" have been distributed over the state to Oct. 1. This represents a total cash sale of $70,000,000.

This wide distribution gives to the 1,000,000 families in Ohio an average of $70 in War Savings Stamps. Before the close of the year it is desired by the United States treasury department that this average be increased to $106 for each family and that the total number of War Savings Stamps so purchased exceed 25,000,000, representing a cash investment of $106,000,000.

At a period when no patriotic person will take risks with his wealth, War Savings Stamps are peculiarly timely, the state committee suggests. Special fitness of War Savings Stamps as an investment for all the people arises from the great security behind them; their ease of convertibility into cash—when absolutely necessary—and their freedom from all forms of taxation. Interest on War Savings Stamps figures to net 4.27 per cent.

War Savings Stamps can be registered against loss, fire or theft. An investment may include any sum up to $1,000 for any person.

While War Savings Stamps are not sold by the government with the idea of encouraging the purchaser to convert them into money before maturity, Jan. 1, 1923, provision is made by which the postoffice of issue will redeem them on 10 days' notice, with allowance of interest.

But, with all the remarkable investment features of War Savings Stamps, the chief reason for buying them is to furnish the government the money it needs to feed and supply its army and navy. War Savings Stamps enable every person in Ohio to have a share in bringing victory, without which life will be worthless, the state War Savings Committee advises.

Mrs. Jones Tells How PEPSINCO Helped Her Stomach!

I just suffered everything. Nothing agreed with me at all. A few minutes after eating I had pain, sourness and as a rule would belch bad tasting stuff.

I tried doctors; I tried medicines; all without effect. Pepsinco was recommended. I honestly believe that I can thank Pepsinco for my good health to-day.

I can eat anything and I am without pain. I would suggest that if there is anything wrong with your stomach, that you go to any drug store and get a small package of Pepsinco.

The above is a testimonial from a party who followed the advice of a friend. Suppose you do the same.

INFLUENZA NOT NEW DISEASE BUT COMMON GRIP

"Influenza is not a new disease but is just common grip." This is the statement of Dr. W. H. Finley, who issues a warning to the people of this community not to become so panicky over the epidemic which is sweeping the country. While the epidemic is very serious it is no more serious than it was in 1889 and 1890, when the disease, which is commonly known as grip, first developed in this country. In this first epidemic Dr. Finley states the fatalities and complications were greater in proportion to the number of cases than they are in the present epidemic. People are warned not to consider "Spanish Influenza" some new and terrible disease. In fact there is no such thing as Spanish influenza. The disease that is at present taking such a heavy toll of people in all parts of the world is simple grip and it is called Spanish influenza for the simple reason that the epidemic first broke out in Spain on this occasion. Influenza and grip are one and the same disease. Nearly every year, there are many cases of grip but it is seldom that the disease comes in epidemic form.

Dr. Finley urges people to stay in the open as much as possible, avoid crowded rooms and persons who are suffering with colds. Headache, general aching, sore eyes, sore throat and chills are symptoms of the disease. Persons feeling these symptoms are urged by Dr. Finley to go to bed immediately. Quick attention will save many lives. The doctor also states that it is imperative that the system be kept clean at all times.

THEY'RE FINDING OUT

With the American Army in France, Sept. 19—(By Mail)—The Germans are annoyed by the frequency with which they run into the Americans along the line. The Germans don't understand it.

An American outfit captured a German line officer east of Reims after his unit with others had been trying to break through for three days. A French intelligence officer asked the German why the boches failed to break through.

"The reason for the failure?" said the German. "It is the Americans. We are storm troops, our unit. We have been in attacks on three points along the line in a month. Each time we have run into Americans. I have letters from friends along the line. They have all hit or been hit by Americans, who are everywhere."

When asked, the German officer estimated there were 4,000,000 Americans in France.

Japan: Conjugal Etiquette.

When American people judge the degree of affection between a Japanese husband and wife by their conduct to each other they make a great mistake. It would be as bad form for a man to express approval of his wife or children as it would be for him to praise any other part of himself, and every wife takes a pride in conducting herself according to the rigid rules of etiquette, which recognize dignity and humility as the virtues that reflect greatest glory on the home of which she is mistress.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Coughs and Sneezes Spread Diseases

As Dangerous as Poison Gas Shells SPREAD OF SPANISH INFLUENZA MENACES OUR WAR PRODUCTION

U. S. Public Health Service Begins Na- tion-wide Health Campaign.

Washington, D. C.—In order to limit the spread of Spanish influenza and keep it from making still further inroads on the nation's war production the U. S. Public Health Service under authority of the resolution just passed by Congress appropriating $1,000,000 to combat the disease has inaugurated a nation-wide campaign of public health education in co-operation with state and local health officers to teach the people of this country how to safeguard their health, keep themselves physically fit and so help maintain the high standard of war production attained within the last few months.

Secretary McAdoo, under whose direction the work of the U. S. Public Health Service is carried on, is taking an active interest in the health campaign. Despite the tremendous demands on his time because of the Fourth Liberty Loan and the work of the Railroad Administration, he has personally asked the help of the nation's newspapers in putting this important educational work before the people.

In response to a request for definite advice concerning Spanish influenza, Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the U. S. Public Health Service has authorized the following statement:

The disease now spreading over this country is highly catching and may invade your community and attack you and your family unless you are very careful.

Influenza is a crowd disease. Therefore keep out of crowds as much as possible.

Influenza probably spreads mostly by inhaling some of the tiny droplets of germ-laden mucus sprayed into the air when ignorant or careless persons sneeze or cough without using a handkerchief. Therefore cover up each cough and sneeze.

Influenza is probably spread also by the filthy habit of spitting on sidewalks, street cars and other public places. Therefore do not spit on the floor or sidewalk.

Influenza is probably spread also by the use of common drinking cups and the use of common towels in public places. Therefore shun the common drinking cup and the roller towel in public places.

If you feel sick and believe you have "Spanish" influenza, go to bed and send for the doctor. This is important. Don't get up too soon, your heart feels as tired as your legs and needs rest.

In all health matters follow your doctor's advice, and obey the regulations of your local and state health officers.

All that has been said above about "Spanish" influenza is true also of colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis. Do your part to keep them away.

EAST END NEWS

The ladies of the Christian church are requested to meet at the residence of Mrs. Towles Sunday evening at 7:30.

Mr. George I. Gaines, the mail carrier, and daughters, Eleanor and Flora, are confined to their beds with influenza.

Dr. P. A. Nichols wishes to remind the members of St. John's church that the church obligations are practically the same while the ban is on the meetings as if the church was open. Members contributed nicely through the envelopes last Sunday and he requests them to do likewise tomorrow. He requests that they take their contributions to the pastor or some member of the finance committee.

The first free school in the United States to train Negro women for nurses for Negro soldiers with the American expeditionary forces in France has been established in Kansas City, Mo. Dr. William J. Thompson has charge of the work under the supervision of the city hospital and the health board. The course of training will be eight weeks.

Rev. R. P. Clark and wife, of Columbus, are visiting their son, Mr. Lloyd W. Clark, and family.

Mr. James M. Scott, a life long resident of this city, died last night about 6:57. He had been in feeble health for nearly twenty years from a complication of diseases. He grew worse just one week ago. His daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Leach, with whom he lived, did all they could to make him comfortable during all of these years. He was born in this city in November, 1859, and was 58 years old his last birthday. He was a candy maker by trade and followed making ice cream candy for many years here. He leaves one son, King W. Scott and one daughter, Mrs. Ellen Leach, both of this city, and a number of other relatives. Funeral will be Monday afternoon at two o'clock from the house.

Her Favorite Hate.

The schoolchildren were requested by their teacher to bring a contribution from home for a Christmas box to be given to poor children. Louise brought the message to her mother and accompanied her to the cupboard to make a selection from a well-stocked shelf. "Here's a nice can of beans you may take to school, dear," said the mother, choosing at random. The child looked anything but pleased, and did not take the gift, but hunted further along the shelf until, aided by the picture on the label, she found a can of peaches. "Please let me have these, mother," she implored. "You know beans are my favorite!"

MOTOR AIDS

For late motor wear one of the best and up-to-date houses have put out a flock of navy blue moon-glo satin, made in the new straight and almost tight lines, which are very advanced, but which will be greatly used this fall. The modish silhouette is straight and the moon-glo meteor, crepe and satin have been manufactured especially to meet the demands of the lady who motors.

One cannot say enough in favor of these exquisite materials; delightfully soft, smooth and beautiful in appearance. Their durability is exceptional.

Although they are not made with an especial satin surface, they possess peculiar bloom, which cannot be described, but must be seen to be appreciated. It is because of this that the manufacturers have given it this name.

The colors are most delectable, to see them is to long for at least one gown and the shades are so lovely and so varied, that it is most difficult for one to make her decision on the color to choose.

Need of Courtesy.

In this day of work and effort there is no time for the woman who has no sense of her obligations. The woman who counts knows that time has greater value today than it has ever had, that to lose fifteen minutes here and there in the day's schedule may entirely disorganize work which must be made to count, and so knowing she meets her appointments promptly, and expects to be treated with the same meed of courtesy by her friends. If she is not she drops those friends and looks about her for others who know that to serve well they must meet all obligations as they come up, and that one of the greatest is the obligation of keeping an engagement on the minute and not on the "fifteen minute-plus" schedule.—New York Evening Telegram.

ARMY COOKS DO THEIR BIT TO BEAT THE HUNS

By FRANK J. TAYLOR.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army in France, Sept. 21—By Mail—The army cooks had a lot to do with the pushing the Germans back from the Marne. Any officer or doughboy will tell you that. The cooks were a great lot, and they were continually on the jump getting food up to the boys who were fighting.

It was a common sight to see the old rolling kitchen lumbering toward the front, trying to get near enough to feed the company, and the cook keeping hot food steaming away as the horses dragged the "goulash wagon" over the torn-up shell swept roads. Barrages didn't stop those army cooks.

The cooks fed anyone who was hungry, no matter what his company, though they always looked out for "their boys."

"Say, I wish that outfit of mine would slow up enough so this old cart could catch up with them," said one worried cook, in typical words. "Believe me, C. Company would never quit fighting if they didn't get a bite of food, but some hot chow would mean new life to them. Let's speed up a bit more, Jim."

So Jim, the cook's assistant, who was driving, urged the tired horses onward toward the cannon sounds, while the cook himself hung onto the rear end of the jolting wheeled kitchen, trying at the same time to stir the stew.

"Were you a cook before the war?" the United Press correspondent asked one husky perspiring cook.

"No, I was a salesman," he replied laughing, "making good money, too."

"War brings unexpected changes, doesn't it?"

"In a way, yes. I never figured on being a cook over here," he said.

"But the same principles apply to this job that did in salesmanship. First of all you have to have the real goods, and then you have to give it to them in the way they like it."

"Camouflage for ordinary grub, studying what the boys want, using a little diplomacy and given their plenty—that's all there is to getting by with this cook's job. It's a great life, but the same principles apply as in salesmanship."

The whiff from his kitchen influenced you to accept his hearty invitation to "have a bite with us."

Liberty-Loving Aleuts.

The Aleutian Islands, which extend in a chain east and west for more than a thousand miles, are inhabited by the remnants of the Aleuts. Their war of revolution closed about the time the American Revolutionary war began. So persistent were the Aleuts in their struggle for independence that they succumbed to the Russians only after a conflict of nearly fifty years, and then chiefly because the race was well-nigh exterminated in the struggle. While the Aleutian Islands must eventually form an important link in the commerce between the United States and the Orient, other islands link our country with the great empire to the north. In the narrow Bering strait lie two little islands, one occupied by Russia, the other by the United States, so that citizens of the two great nations live on respective islands within a few miles of each other.

PHYSICALLY FIT AT ANY AGE

It isn't age, it's careless living that puts men "down and out." Keep your internal organs in good condition and you will always be physically fit. Watch the kidneys.

The kidneys are the most over-worked organs in the human body. When they break down under the strain and the deadly uric acid accumulates and crystallizes look out! These sharp crystals tear and "scratch" the delicate urinary channels, causing excruciating pain and set up irritations which may cause premature degeneration and often do turn into deadly Bright's Disease.

One of the first warnings of sluggish kidney action is pain or stiffness in the small of the back, high colored or scanty urine, loss of appetite, indigestion or rheumatism.

Do not wait until the danger is upon you. At the first indication of trouble go after the cause at once. Go to your druggist immediately. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL-Haaren Oil Capsules, imported direct from the laboratories in Holland, where they have been in use for over two hundred years. They will give almost immediate relief. If for any cause they should not, your money will be refunded. But be sure to get GOLD MEDAL. None other is genuine. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

SPANISH INFLUENZA--WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT SHOULD BE TREATED

Nothing New—Simply the Old Grip, or la Grippe, That Was Epidemic in 1889-90, Only Then It Came From Russia by Way of France and This Time by Way of Spain.

Go to Bed and Stay Quiet—Take a Laxative—Eat Plenty of Nourishing Food—Keep Your Strength—Nature Is the Cure.

ALWAYS CALL A DOCTOR

NO OCCASION FOR PANIC.

Spanish influenza, which appeared in Spain in May, has all the appearance of grip or la grippe, which has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemic in 412 B. C. which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

There is no occasion for panic—influenza itself has a very low percentage of fatalities—not over one death out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally patients in a run down condition—those who don't go to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

THE SYMPTOMS.

Grippe, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness, and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages—nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially bad at night, often times a sore throat or tonsillitis, and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT.

Go to bed at the first symptoms, not only for your own sake but to avoid spreading the disease to others—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Quinine, aspirin or Dover's Powder, etc., may be administered by the physician's directions to relieve the aching. But there is no cure or specific for influenza—the disease must run its course, but nature will throw off the attack if only you keep up your strength. "The chief danger lies in the complications which may arise. Influenza so weakens the bodily resistance that there is danger of pneumonia or bronchitis developing, and sometimes inflammation of the middle ear, or heart affections. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until his strength returns—stay in bed at least two days or more after the fever has left you, or if you are over 50 or not strong, stay in bed four days or more."

NOTE: Vick's VapoRub is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, who found how to combine, in salve form, Menthol and Camphor with such volatile oils as Eucalyptus, Thyme, Cinnamon, etc., so that when the salve is applied to the body heat, these ingredients are liberated in the form of vapors.

VapoRub is comparatively new in New York State and New England and a few Western states where it is just now being introduced, but in the other sections of the country it is the standard home remedy in over a million homes for all forms of cold troubles. Over six million jars were sold last year. It is particularly recommended for children's croup or colds, since it is externally applied and therefore can be used as freely as desired without the slightest harmful effects. VapoRub can be had in three sizes at all druggists.

THE PLAGUE OF UNCLEAN LIPS OR "ARMY TALK."

Two editorials have recently appeared, both a column in length; the one "The Plague of Unclean Lips," in the New York Christian Advocate; the other "Army Talk," in the New York Evening Sun. The latter condoned the profanity of the soldier—declaring that such speech reinforced the language, making it startlingly convincing.

The editorial in the Christian Advocate mentioned one Douglas Fairbanks, who hit upon what he considered a plan of stirring up enthusiasm at a meeting in behalf of the Liberty Loan. He said: "I don't often swear; I wonder how it would be to hear an audience swear. Let us all shout together, 'To hell with the kaiser.' One two three, now altogether, 'To hell with the kaiser.' And men, women and children roared the message.

Many prophets are rising up among us nowadays who are predicting that out of this world-war there will come that which will enrich and bless the human race. No one questions but that God can make "the wrath of man to praise Him." But it looks very much as if one crop, for which seed has been sown, will neither enrich or bless, and that is "the plague of unclean lips." The habit of using profanity in referring to the kaiser and to Germany, is rapidly increasing. Lips that would not use such language prior to the war, now use it flippantly and with a seeming show of pride. It punctuates the language of the soldier according to report, the platform speaker, and the newspaper.

In certain kinds of literature profanity is all too common. The cheap, trashy novels of the present day are flooded with "the plague of unclean lips." Certain writers think it smacks of smartness to embellish their stories with profanity.

But the old law of Sinai stands unrepented, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain, for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain."

Profanity is both an unrepentable and an unmanly sin, a violation alike of good taste and good morals; an offense against both man and God. It was Horace Mann who said: "The devil tempts men through their ambition, their cupidity or their appetite, until he comes to the profane swearer, when he catches without any bait or reward."

BOND BUYING NOT A GIFT.

We noticed in a recent issue of a paper of a neighboring city, after stating their quota, the headline: "We Must Give to the Liberty Loan." The word "give" in this connection is a most unfortunate and misleading expression. No one is asked to "give" money to the government. We are asked to loan it on the best security in the world, the bonds of this, the most prosperous nation in the world, at 4 1/2 per cent interest—to loan our money not to strangers, but to ourselves, the bonds being backed by every dollar of money, every dollar's worth of property and by the earning and producing capacity of every one of our 100,000,000 men, women and children of this, the most wonderful inventive and producing nation the world have ever seen!

"Give," forsooth! The only "givers" in this war, at least the only ones whose "giving" counts, are our magnificent young men who by the million, are "giving" their future, their lives if need be, for our sacred cause. What we are doing in buying Liberty Bonds is simply putting our money out at good interest, free of taxes.

The use of the word "give" in connection with the Liberty Loan has been quite common through the press. It is pernicious because it might lead the unthinking or poorly informed to believe that they part with their money as a gift, when the truth is that the Liberty Loan opens the best opportunity ever known to a majority of the people to make the best investment in the world, at a good rate of interest, and at the same time make it possible for our boys "over there" to bring this war to a successful end and "make the world a place fit to live in."

What a wonderful opportunity! Let us hear no more about "giving" to the Liberty Loan—let us make those who are not posted on business understand that they are being offered the best investment in the world, that they will get interest while their money, free of taxation, is working for them and that they are not only serving the cause of humanity, but getting paid for doing it!

LITTLE SOLDIER SUIT IS SHROUD FOR ROBERT DAVIS

The little soldier suit which he had so proudly worn, was the burial shroud for 6 year old Robert Carl Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Davis of Home avenue.

Funeral services for the little boy were held Friday afternoon at the home, and the little fellow, who although little more than a baby, had been always patriotic, and eager to wear the little uniform which his parents bought him, was laid out for his last sleep in the little khaki suit.

The funeral service was in charge of the Rev. Biddlecum of the Friends church, and Dr. and Mrs. B. L. Lackey sang "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." The little casket was surrounded by fragrant flowers.

Interment was in Woodland, and the bearers of the casket were the little boy's two brothers, Frank and Lawrence Davis, Clark Lackey and George Metty.

START THEIR BATTLES FROM STRIP OF TAPE

Just Like Runners Taking Part in a Great Athletic Meet.

The allied armies start their battles from a tape-line just like runners taking part in an athletic meet. A strip of white tape, an inch wide, marks the assembly line from which the troops "go over."

The troops gather under cover of darkness and await the "zero hour," which is guarded with the strictest secrecy. All the watches of the officers are synchronized. The soldiers await the word to start. It may be given at midnight or at four-fifty o'clock in the morning.

I've seen an attack started by Americans along the Marne in the mid-afternoon sunlight, but the onslaughts usually are launched before daybreak, or during a fog.

The British have developed an ingenious smoke screen, which, coupled with the artillery, baffles the enemy.

I've seen troops march silently during the night to the assembly tape. I've heard the boom of the great guns and seen the flashes marking the barrage as a flood of men pushed forward. It seems incredible how any living thing could come through such infernos, when at dawn you trudge across the fresh battlefield and see the starting tape lying on the scorched grass and across mighty shell craters.

DR. HUGHES PAYS VISIT TO WILBERFORCE

President R. M. Hughes of Miami University, District Educational Director of Ohio and West Virginia, visited Wilberforce University a few days ago for a brief conference with President Scarborough relative to the Student Army Training Corps. He was met at the Station by the president and taken to the University, where he met the Dean, the Secretary and the treasurer of the institution.

His visit was purely educational. Dr. Hughes expressed himself as greatly pleased with the outlook of things. He is expected to return soon.

ARTHUR MENDEL INVESTIGATES
BRIAN'S BUSINESS ADDRESS

CHAPTER LX.

Arthur Mandel had not been oblivious that, ever since Ruth's return from the West, something had been worrying her. While her work had been well done, every time she was unoccupied for a moment—and he had watched her closely—he had been aware of some inward disturbance.

"She's not happy with him," he said to himself, "him" of course meaning Brian. "Fool, not to know the value of such a woman." And in consequence he had made things as easy as possible for Ruth.

Her salary was small to him, when considered as a living for a woman brought up as she had been. He had by bits wormed the story of her whole easy, luxurious life from her; the life she lived at her aunt's before she met and married Brian Hackett. While she never had given him any idea that Brian could not take decent care of her, he recalled that as soon as he had raised her salary she had moved. Moved to a better address. That looked as if before they could afford nothing better than the place they had lived. He had the street and number, for when Ruth came to them, she had given it as her home address. So one day he walked past. His fastidious taste was quite shocked at the locality. Curious, he had asked to see an apartment. He had been shown the one "formerly occupied by Mr. Hackett, a young lawyer," so the valuable superintendent told him. He was then still more shocked. The small, dingy, inartistic rooms must have been a constant torture to Ruth. He shuddered as he thought of her in such surroundings.

"No wonder she would rather work for me," he muttered when he reached the street. Then straightway he wondered if he were paying her enough; if she could gratify her simple desires with what he gave her?

Brian, he eliminated entirely. What he earned must, at the best, be a negligible quantity, else he would not have taken his bride to such a poor home. Especially a bride who had been accustomed to luxurious surroundings. Then he smiled grimly as another thought came to his mind.

"The beggar can't have too much for her, when he takes that girl of his to the smartest places in New York to dine," he said aloud as he walked along. Arthur Mandel knew his New York. He knew what the simplest restaurant in certain places, the very places he had seen Brian, and he also knew a young lawyer could not afford to patronize them unless he had an independent income—which he was sure Brian Hackett had not.

"I wonder what kind of an office he has? I'll drop in some time when he's out to lunch—if I can find out what time he goes," he said so loudly a woman turned and laughingly said to her companion:

"Did you hear that fine-looking

INFLUENZA STRIKES NEWSPAPER FORCE

The Urbana Democrat is hard hit by the influenza epidemic and the paper is being published under difficulties. Thursday's paper says:

Further inroads were made in the Democrat-Citizen force Thursday when Miss Adelaide Croy, linotype operator, failed to appear for work, being detained at her home by Spanish influenza. Before the middle of the forenoon, Editor Harry Whitaker gave up and is now in bed under a doctor's positive injunctions to stay there. Shortly after noon Advertising Manager L. C. Hovey, who has been doing yeoman service at the makeup bench, was excused to go to the doctor and is now under his care. Earl Glick, of the mailing department, published Wednesday. Robert Dunne, is also another to add to the sick list of the Dunne and Heatherman company, is operating a linotype machine in a kind effort to help out.

There are twelve Gummer employees away from their work because of illness.

To Conserve Firewood.
In burning wood in a furnace built for coal the firebox should first be lined with firebrick or sheet iron, so as to check the draft. Otherwise, the wood will burn too rapidly.

IT'S THE ONLY WAY OUT, WILHELM!

man talking to himself? He must be in love."

Arthur Mandel heard, and the rest of his walk he kept his thoughts to himself. But they were all of Ruth, and of Brian's inability to give her what he, Arthur Mandel, thought she should have.

The next morning he deftly brought the conversation around to her lunching place, then point blank put the question:

"Why don't you go down and lunch with your husband, occasionally. There are some very interesting and very good restaurants in his locality. Or doesn't he lunch at the same hour?"

"Yes, between one and two, and I have often thought I would go down and lunch with him. We were talking about it only the other day." Ruth was pleased at her employer's interest. So pleased she told Brian of the little episode as soon as he came home that night.

It had not been really only idle curiosity that actuated Arthur Mandel, when he hunted up Brian's office at half past one the day he had questioned Ruth. If he found him nicely situated, looking prosperous—his surroundings what they should be, etc.—he would wait a while before advancing her salary. But, if, as he suspected, he was scraping along on thin ice, spending what he earned on girls instead of on his wife, he would raise it immediately. Ruth must not want for anything she needed because she was tied to a man who did not care for her.

He found Brian out. Asked for his office, and was told he was occupying only desk room in the large office in which he had inquired. The office whose number was given in the telephone book opposite Brian's name.

"So he can only afford desk room. Worse than I thought!" Mr. Mandel said as he hurried back up-town. He had left no name, nor any message. He had simply said, he would call again.

He looked at Ruth that afternoon with a different feeling than he had yet acknowledged to himself. A feeling of pride in her, her bravery in going down to work to help out that fellow down there who could only afford desk room in some other man's office. That was the way he thought of Brian, "That fellow."

"She's a game little thing," he said admiringly as he watched her. "Too good, by far, for such a fellow."

HOT ONIONS REMEDY FOR PNEUMONIA

Hot onions, according to a French physician, are said to be a sure cure for pneumonia.

The remedy is as follows: Take six or ten onions, according to size, and chop fine. Put in a large pan over a fire; then add the same quantity of rye meal and enough vinegar to make a thick paste. In the meanwhile stir thoroughly, letting it simmer for five or ten minutes. Then put in a cotton bag large enough to cover the lungs and apply to the chest as hot as the patient can bear it. In about ten minutes apply another, and thus continue by reheating the poultices and in a few hours the patient will be out of danger.

This simple remedy has never failed to cure this too often fatal malady. Usually, three or four applications will be sufficient.

20 YEARS AGO

Miss Marie Heister, of Washington C. H., is spending a few days here, the guest of Miss Mabel McKay.

Miss Ica Barber, of Springfield, is spending a few days here on a visit with Mr. T. B. Clark and family.

Mrs. Charles Dursi, of Dayton, gave a most charming reception yesterday at which Mrs. O. A. Smith and Mrs. W. A. Cooley of this city, were guests of honor.

For two days, Friday and Saturday only, for spot cash, Ed Schmidt makes the following offers:

Granulated sugar, 29 pounds for $1.
Lenox soap, 2 bars for 10c.
All kinds of package coffee, 10 cents a pound.

Surely Not Bump of Knowledge.
O'Brien met Flanagan and noticed he had a big lump on his forehead. "Hello," said O'Brien, "is that a bump of knowledge?" "Indeed, it's not," said Flanagan. "It's a bump of ignorance of knowing nothing about boxing."

ONE OF THE BEST SOLDIERS IN HIS COMMAND SAYS MAJOR

"He was one of the best soldiers in my command, and very conscientious," said Major Leroy F. Smith, commanding officer of the Second Development Battalion at Camp Sherman, who came to Xenia Friday afternoon to look after the body of Sergeant Leslie LaFargo, who committed suicide here early Friday morning, because a deserter in his custody escaped.

Major Smith was unable to give any reason for the soldier's deed, other than that he had worried himself into it. So far as court martial was concerned the major said that there was no ground for Sergeant LaFargo fearing punishment because the man got away from him.

"He would, of course, have been required to give an explanation of the matter when he reached camp," said the major. Major Smith said that Sergeant LaFargo was such a good soldier that he had a week ago, placed him in charge of some important training work at the camp.

Major Smith telegraphed to the soldier's mother, at Livingston Manor, N. Y., from this city, asking her if she wished the body forwarded to her. The body was shipped to Camp Sherman on the B. and O. train Friday afternoon, the same as had borne Sergeant LaFargo and his prisoner to this city from Middletown Thursday night, and from which the prisoner escaped. Should the mother wish the body sent to her, it will be shipped from camp.

Admission to West Point.

Appointments to West Point are usually made one year in advance of date of admission by the secretary of war, upon the nomination of senators and representatives. These nominations may be made after competitive examinations of applicants or without such examinations. In either event the candidate, before admission, must pass the academy examinations in the following subjects: English grammar, English composition, English literature, algebra, quadratic equations, plain geometry, descriptive geography, elements of physical geography, United States history and the outline of general history. The applicant must be between the ages of seventeen and twenty-two.—Indianapolis News.

FALLEN HEROES ARE PAID HONORS BY COMRADES

Told in a beautifully simple way, the following description of a soldier's funeral in France, as given by Miss Maude Corbett, former secretary of the Greene County Y. W. C. A., now a Y. W. C. A. worker attached to Base Hospital No. 34, in France, in a letter to a friend, is of much interest:

There is something very uplifting, yet very sad about a military funeral. One feels the thrill of the soldier's laying down his life for an ideal and one suffers with the family who are not there and who must bear the suffering so many miles away. The funeral is simple, at least as conducted at this base hospital. First comes the firing squad with their sergeant, following them a soldier bearing the cross, then the chaplain. Following him comes a French soldier riding a beautiful black horse. I do not know the exact function of this soldier but suppose he is a sort of guard for next comes a French caisson drawn by two beautiful horses like the first. A French soldier rides one of these.

The coffin, a simple box, draped with the American flag and usually having also a bunch of flowers, is borne on the caisson. On either side of the carriage walk two soldiers, the ones who lay their comrade to rest. French and American soldiers and civilians follow after. We go along a quiet road to a pretty lane where we turn and continue until we come to what has been a yellow wheat field. This field is surrounded with hedges and in the distance one sees the beautiful hills and trees of this rolling country. This is very peaceful and restful for one's last sleep. The graves are dug side by side, just alike. The firing squad go to one side, the bearers take the coffin from the carriage and bear it to the grave.

Then in the hush of the great out of door the chaplain reads the beautiful service. "I am the resurrection and the life," and all those wonderful words that point to the life to come. The firing squad takes its place and fires three salutes, and the bugler plays taps, for the last time for his comrade. It is over, and we leave the field. The representative of the Home Communication Service of the Red Cross takes a flower from those there to press and send home to the family when she writes the letter of sympathy that she writes after each funeral.

In a short time a white cross bearing the name and organization of the soldier sleeping there is placed at the head of the grave. Each grave is numbered and registered with the Grave Registration Bureau of the Army.

The first time I saw the little procession going on its way to the cemetery I wept but since then, even when I have gone to the cemetery as I have done a couple of times, it has not made me feel quite the same. I think of Shakespeare's words "After life's fitful fever he sleeps well." It makes one think of the countless homes that have been bereft all over the world and of the many many who think of a little white cross somewhere in France. Some way this makes one feel very much akin to all the suffering ones in the world, and it also helps one to realize what Jesus meant when he said "Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friends," it helps us to realize something of the mission of suffering.

This same ceremony was followed at an officer's funeral except officers walked beside the carriage and there was an echo bugle of Taps.

This is all a part of the price that we pay for freedom of thought, for freedom of political life, in fact for democracy.

OWNS A COUPLE OF FACTORIES BUT HE NEEDED THE COIN

With the American Army in France, Sept. 13—(By Mail)—He was a private, and he looked the part. But he hesitated when some war workers who wanted to establish a billet in some ruins offered him and his bunkie $2 apiece to help sweep out the place. He wasn't busy just then.

Finally he followed the example of his bunkie and accepted the job. "If anybody'd offered me money to sweep over in the States, I'd have turned up my nose," he told his friend. "You see I own a couple factories over there, and got a pretty good fortune beside that. But over here when you can't write a check and get it cashed, you'd do most anything for a couple dollars for it's about the end of the month, and you haven't drawn your $30 per for two months. War sure makes a fellow democratic."

CLIFTON

Schools, churches and all public assemblies were closed in Clifton last week of influenza in the community. Saturday evening, owing to the private Harris, Littler-Neff families are all in bed with the grip. No pneumonia complications.

Leo and Lamar Reed, little sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reed, are rejoicing in the possession of a new pony.

Mrs. George H. Smith, of Kansas City, Mo., who, with her sister and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Swearingner, were touring from Cleveland to their home in Circleville, Ohio, visited old friends here last Monday.

Most of the farmers are through seeding wheat about here. Many fields of wheat are already up.

Mrs. J. V. Stewart, whose husband was Supt. of schools here thirty years ago, and who is now residing in Maysville, Ohio, renewed old acquaintances here last Thursday, in company with Springfield relatives.

Four members of the family of Rev. E. G. McKibben are ill with influenza.

All He Knew About His Meal.

Having finished his meal the diner called for his check. "Let's see," said the waiter, "what did you have?" "Can't tell for the life of me," was the reply; "but what I ordered was minced

Advertising---The Buying Power

COPYRIGHT 1918 By R. & L. Co.

By HUGH BRENNAN, President Dooley-Brennan Co. Chicago

NUMBER 14

A series of fifty-two articles written by experts on advertising for your benefit. They will appear in the Gazette and Republican. Read them and learn how advertising helps you.

Away back in the history of the advertising business, some twenty years ago, there used to be a common slogan employed by unthinking manufacturers, which was illogical, erroneous and misleading, yet it was popular. This slogan was—"THE BEST BECAUSE IT IS THE CHEAPEST."

There isn't any premise upon which one might predicate a conclusion that anything is best because it costs the least; in fact it is more logical to presume that the thing which costs the most must be most desirable.

Today the national advertiser who is successful gives two very great considerations to his business before marketing an article, and the first of these is the quality which he proposes to furnish the prospective buyers.

In other words he is conscientiously endeavoring to give the consumers the very best that anyone can possibly give them.

His second consideration and the one to which he gives very serious thought is—what price must he charge the public for the article. The price must not be too much nor, yet must it be too little, and until he arrives at the proper margin upon which to figure fair profits he is not ready to advertise to the public.

Advertising is really an insurance to the consumer as to price.

Advertising is the one force in commerce and trade today which more nearly guarantees to the people a fair price on consumer exchange with the assurance that this price is standardized in a way that there will be no fluctuation.

Never has this been so practically demonstrated in the history of business than it has been during the past two years when there has been an emphatic tendency to raise prices for articles of food, clothing or means of shelter.

While we know that unusual conditions make a great scarcity in raw material for the manufacture of many goods, yet it would seem at times that there is an unreasonable increase in prices for some of the necessities of life.

Now just at this time those articles which have been advertised for years at standard prices remain either at that standard at the present time or so very nearly this amount that there is little or no difference in the price to the consumer.

The problem which confronts the advertising business at all times is to make known to the general public that there is something which can be purchased which is essentially needed, and which can be secured at a fair price to the buyer.

Custom has established that there are some things which we must of necessity have, and which, therefore, do not require the same amount of publicity or selling force.

For example, we all must wear shoes and it has been accepted by the manufacturers of this particular commodity that "shoes are shoes" and that the average buyer of shoes visits his merchant intending to pay a certain amount for shoes without much if any thought to the particular make or trade mark of the shoe.

There are a few exceptions to this. Now, therefore, when a scarcity of leather and other materials necessary in the manufacture of shoes was experienced within the last couple of years the price of shoes immediately soared to a figure that in many instances is well high prohibitive to the ordinary buyer.

It is logical to presume that had all shoe manufacturers advertised to the public in the last fifteen years, this advertising for business would have necessarily established the lowest possible prices for shoes. It would probably have standardized a price on all grades of shoes because price is one of the greatest features of competition in advertised articles, as is evidenced by breakfast foods, hosiery, food products of all kinds such as ketchup, canned goods, olives and the like.

As a consequence, when the price of shoes was arbitrarily advanced these prices were established without thought in regard to the price that the competitor would advertise. It was a case of "shoes are shoes."

People will have to wear shoes and will have to pay whatever price is demanded for them.

Let us presume, on the other hand, that there is a manufacturer who has for years advertised an article, say, at 15c. Normal conditions of manufacture make it possible for him to produce this article and offer it to the consumer at 15c. It has been so advertised and the consumer agrees that it is worth 15c, but we will suppose that conditions which affected shoes will now affect the manufacture of the 15c article to a point where he must charge 60c instead of 15c.

The consumer has been trained to believe that the article is worth 15c and because through this advertised training he is conscious that it is worth 15c he refuses to pay 60c. The manufacturer automatically goes out of business and the consumer is the loser, but yet the advertising has protected the consumer because the price has been advertised to him.

He has been educated as to the buying power of his dollar and the trade has been universally benefitted.

Pretty Names Given Flowers.

The "Virgin Mary's Milk Drops" has a white spotted leaf and the Balsam is a "Jacob's Ladder." Many other flowers also have a spice of piety in their names, probably because generations ago the monks heeded the body as well as the mind, and being skillful herbsters, named the flowers from which they brewed their simples and cordials. The "Lady" therefore in "Lady Slipper," "Lady's Smock" and "Lady's Bedstraw" means "Our Lady," who is again signified in "Rosemary" and "Marybuds," while "St. John's Wort," with its golden crowns, and "Crosswort" with its ivory crosses, are very aptly named. But while the monks practiced piety even in their flower names, the common people believed in fairies and the like and practically imagined that certain flowers were for fairy use. So the harebell became the "Fairycup" and the Mock-horn a bouquet of wee golden blossoms descended to us as a "Fairy Cheesebake." Nor is the gentle passion forgotten as "Love in a mist," and "Love lies bleeding" testify; while surely "Lads' Love" is as fragrant as the memory of a first love.

Taken ill of typhoid fever while on a visit to the home of her son in Dayton, four weeks ago, Mrs. Lida Gross Wolf, of this city, widow of John Martin Wolf, died at the Miami Valley Hospital at 4:30 Saturday morning.

The interment will be made at Byron. Funeral plans have not been announced.

What He Didn't Like About Helen.
Kenneth's little playmate, Helen, was to have a party. Only girls were to be invited, but Kenneth was unaware of this fact. He longed for an invitation and expected one up to the day of the party. But alas! the invitation didn't come. Downhearted, he said to his mother: "You know, mother, I like Helen awfully well, but I certainly don't like her ways."

BRAVE FIGHT IS CLOSED FOR CHAS. A. DAVIS

Ending a brave struggle for health and strength, Charles A. Davis, deputy clerk of the Greene County courts, and for 14 years chief deputy in the probate court, died at 12:30 Saturday afternoon, at his home on East Market street.

For just one week Mr. Davis had been confined to his bed, but for the last eight weeks the condition of his health kept him away from the office. His gradual decline in health for a year or so had been the cause of much anxiety on the part of his friends, who admired the brave spirit and pluck which kept him at work, and on his feet when they knew that the effort was costing him physical suffering.

Mr. Davis was a son of the late David Davis, and Susannah Clemens Davis, and he was born on the old farm near Jamestown, December 28, 1857. He married Miss Lucy May Palmer of Jamestown, November 13, 1878, when he was only 20 years old, and they would have celebrated the 40th anniversary of their marriage next month.

Their married life was one of great happiness, and their separation by death is felt keenly by the wife who survives.

Eight years of their married life were passed by Mr. and Mrs. Davis in Kansas. They returned to Jamestown and lived there until after Mr. Davis' appointment as chief deputy in the probate court, under Judge Marcus Shoup. He served there during the incumbency of Judge Shoup and his successor, Judge C. F. Howard, and resigned to take the place as chief deputy clerk of the courts, under the incumbent, George W. Sheets. He served in this capacity since Mr. Sheets assumed the office until he was forced to give up the work by his failing health.

Davis was one of the most prominent and popular lodge men in Xenia and Jamestown. He was a member of the local lodge of Elks almost since its formation, and had served as exalted ruler and in other capacities. He was a member of the Jamestown Masonic Chapter, I. O. O. F. lodge and Encampment and the Knights of Pythias.

Surviving him with his devoted wife are an adopted daughter, Mrs. Ernest Barrett of Haleyville, Okla., and her three sons, Paul, Randall and Ivan; one brother, Harvey Davis of Springfield, and three sisters: Mrs. Louisa Shipley of Jamestown; Mrs. Laura Paul of Milwaukee; Mrs. A. G. Paulin of Jamestown, and Mrs. Frank McGuire of Columbus.

It is planned to hold the funeral Monday afternoon.

HUN SHELL HITS TWO BROTHERS

In a tiny village of Lorraine where a regiment of "doughboys" were resting after a long stretch of time in the trenches, a German shell found a mark in two brothers. They were rushed to the nearest hospital, mortally wounded, writes Frank J. Taylor, United Press correspondent.

They were just regular, hard-fighting "doughboys," liked by all of the men in D company because they were "good pals who always did a little more than their share of the work." Every man in the company admired the brothers because he had seen them behave bravely when it was hard to be brave.

Out of all the men in D company it was hard to see why fate had singled these two to be struck by one German shell. Fate makes no explanations, so the doctors in the hospital operated skillfully and quickly on the brothers and placed them in beds, side by side, in a ward full of wounded.

For a time both men lay there hovering between life and death, and there was uncertainty whether or not they would ever gain consciousness.

Regains His Senses.

Finally one of them stirred slightly, opened his eyes and gradually came to his senses. A motherly nurse bent over him and eased his pain as much as possible. Then she whispered to him that his brother was on the next cot, but still unconscious.

The conscious brother looked dazed, but gradually an enlightened look came into his eyes as he recollected what happened in the last three hours. He looked across to the next cot, faintly reached his arm toward his brother and whispered:

"Joe, how are you?"

The other brother stirred slightly, and gradually regained his senses. The nurse gently eased him, as he looked around with a puzzled look, and finally told him:

"Here's your brother on the next cot."

The second brother looked over with pained amazement.

"What are you in bed for, George? Are you hurt, too?"

"Yes, Joe; they say the same shell got us both."

"Are you hurt badly, George?"

"I think so, Joe; I feel awful weak. How are you? Does it hurt you a lot, boy?"

"I don't know as it does. I'm weak, too. But there's another feeling I can't describe."

"What is it, Joe?"

"I dunno, George. But, remember the things mother used to tell us when we were little, and fought to get on her lap? I keep hearing her telling us Sunday school stories, George, over and over, just the way she used to do it years ago."

"We were on our way to mass when it hit us, Joe. Maybe that's why you hear mother telling Bible stories. I can hear her now, too, Joe."

"I wish she were here, don't you?"

"I should say so, Joe. Maybe the nurse of some one will talk to us the way mother used to. We ought to do it, anyway, because if something happened to either of us, mother would like to know we were all right."

"I think so, too, but say—George."

"Yes?"

"If I should die, you'll be careful so you can go back and look after mother, won't you?"

"That's a promise, Joe. I want you to make the same one to me."

"Let's shake on it, George."

They reached their arms across the space between the beds and clasped hands.

Both Die for Country.

"I'm not afraid," said Joe, "if you come through all right, George. I wish we didn't have to leave D company, though, but even if we get well, we probably couldn't go back with the boys. I'm afraid I'm pretty low, George, but don't you worry. There's no pain now."

"I'm not in pain, either, George, but awfully sleepy. We don't have to worry about Company D, because the boys'll never lose a chance to get a German."

"That's right, too. I feel myself going to sleep; so good-by, Joe."

"Good-by, George."

The brothers dozed back into their pillows, and the old hospital chaplain, who had just arrived, made his services a simple prayer for two brothers who were never to awake from the sleep they were entering.

In a certain New England town a brave mother has already been told by Uncle Sam how the nation appreciated the brave sons she reared, taught and sacrificed "to make the world a decent place to live in."

In a certain New England regiment on the front in France every man in D company has promised himself and his "pals" that D company will never lose a chance to get a German.

PERFUME GOES UP AS RESULT OF WAR

(By United Press.)

Rome, September 8.—(By Mail)—As a result of the war Italy's perfume next year is to cost more than ever before.

Be that as it may, Bulgaria is the world's center for the cultivation of roses for perfume purposes. The essence of roses from Bulgaria constitute the basis of the great bulk of all genuine flower perfumes the world over. The cultivation of these roses is one of the principal industries of the Bulgarian peasant when he is not engaged in massacring his Serbian neighbors or performing other non-essential atrocities.

This year, owing to the fact that the great bulk of the Bulgarian peasant population has been mobilized in the cause of Germany, the roses have not been given the cultivation and attention they need.

The entire production of essence of roses in Bulgaria this year has been only about 4,800 pounds. In ordinary times it averages 11,000 pounds. On account of the poor quality of roses this year it required about 60 pounds of roses to produce 5 grams of essence. If the roses had been properly attended to this quantity could have been secured from only 25 pounds of roses.

The women of the allied countries are thus to have brought home to them a realization of what it means to make war against Germany and her allies.

Destructive Tapestry Meth.

The tapestry meth is rare in the United States. It normally affects rather coarser and heavier cloths than the smaller species and is more apt to occur in carpets, horse blankets and tapestries than in the finer and thinner woolen fabrics. It also affects felling, furs and skins, and is a common source of damage to the woolen upholstery of carriages, being rather more likely to occur in carriage houses and barns than in dwelling houses. Its larva enters directly into the material which it infests, constructing burrows or galleries, which it lines more or less completely with silk. Within these galleries it is protected and concealed during its larval life, and later undergoes its transformations without other protection than that afforded by the gallery. The damage is due as much or more to its burrowing than to the actual amount of the material consumed for food.

Ground for Confidence.

We sometimes want to know how well a man has done when we are asked for an opinion as to how well he will do. We almost instinctively judge the future by the past; this is reasoning by induction, a process that generally leads to right conclusions. Certainly, it is reasonable to believe that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has accomplished for others, it can and will accomplish for you, provided of course you are afflicted in like manner. Hood's Sarsaparilla has made thousands healthy and strong by purifying and enriching the blood, curing diseases of the stomach, liver and kidneys, restoring appetite, relieving that tired feeling—in a word, by building up the whole system. Its record of cures of blood diseases, scrofula, rheumatism or eczema, psoriasis, pimples, boils and other eruptions, catarrh, dyspepsia and rheumatism is in thousands of letters voluntarily and gratefully written and forming a colossal volume of testimony. Surely anybody suffering from any of these diseases is fully justified in giving this medicine a trial.

Three Distinguished Astronomers.

It is a remarkable circumstance, Sir David Brewster writes in his "Martyrs of Science," that astronomy should have been cultivated at the same time by three such distinguished men as Tycho, Kepler and Galileo. While Tycho, in the fifty-fourth year of his age, was observing the heavens at Prague, Kepler, only thirty years old, was applying his wild genius to the determination of the orbit of Mars, and Galileo, at the age of thirty-six, was about to direct the telescope to the unexplored regions of space. The diversity of gifts which Providence assigned to these three philosophers was no less questionable. Tycho was destined to lay the foundation of modern astronomy by a vast series of accurate observations made with the largest and the finest instruments. It was the proud lot of Kepler to deduce the laws of the planetary orbits from the observations of his predecessors; while Galileo enjoyed the more dazzling honor of discovering by the telescope new celestial bodies and new systems of worlds.
